The Intelligencer.

TUENDAY, MARCH 20, 1877.

A Chance for Wheeling and Belladies in the Indianapolis Journal, a very important branch of industry is about to be established in this country by a company of foreign capitalists. The particulars of the movement are given as follows: Mr. August Gobert, jr., who was the Belgian Commissioner to the Centennial Exhibition, has made a report to his Government upon the glass products exhibited. He enumerates the exhibitors and their nationality, gives the detail of manufacture, shows wherein the Americans were deficient, and the steps they have taken to remedy their errors, and gives the statistics of the production of plate, window, ornamental and table glass in the United States. As a curious glass in the United States. As a curious former of the recommendative contents and the errors into gives the statistics of the production of plate, window, ornamental and table glass in the United States. As a curious fact, he mentions that about two million francs ($400,000) were spent by one plate glass concern alone, in unimportant experiments; an expenditure which might have been saved by a trip to Europe.

Mr. Gobert attributes the rapid growth of the glass industry in the United States to a judicious protective tariff on glass. He shows that America consumes more plate glass than any other nation, and only supplies one-fifth of her own demand, wherefore he urges the capitalists of Belgium to establish plate glass factories in the United States, where all the necessary material may be had in abundance.

Hayes would not fall into the errors into when General Grant fell in the making appointments, and this itself would give a tone of greater respectability to the present Administration than could be given to the last. Since his arrival in St. Louis he has been the object of marked attention, many prominent people calling at his was or great that not one in ten of those was or great that not one in ten of those who came were admitted. A noisy rabble gathered around the entrance, and honly supplies one-fifth of her own demand, wherefore he urges the capitalists of Belgium to establish plate glass factories in the United States, where all the necessary material may be had in abundance.

OUR WELLEMBURG LETTER.

There is no doubt that Mr. Gobert be lieves in the correctness of his views as thus published, for he has written a letter One would suppose that business promised to be more than ordinarily good the coming season, if an increase of dealers in merchandise can be taken for an indito Professor Cox, the State Geologist, of Indiana, in which he says that since the publication of his report the stock of the five great plate-glass works of Belgium declined 25 per cent, and he actual-ly knew of some holders who were anx-We notice that algests, cowaites as Bracken are fitting up the room opposite the Court House, formerly occupied by Everett, Hobbs, Bracken & Co., with the intention of dealing in dry goods and ious to take stock in the American works who could not rell at any price. He also states that he has secured stock to the Sam. Elankensop & Co. are renovating the old stand of C. Tarr, Jr. & Co., cor-ner of steamboat landing, for the purpose of carrying on the dry goods and grocery husinors. amount of $200,000, and will leave for the United States on the 5th of April, with a view of selecting a proper site for plate-glass works. He expects to be in business.

We hope that our enterprising citizens who are thus branching out in business may not reap disappointment, but an abundant harvest for their labors.

J. S. Pools, our young and enterprising news agent, has taken a room in the Tarr building, and arranged it in a manner that will compare favorably with establishments of that kind in larger places. Indianapolis some time in May. The contemplated works with two Siemens' regenerative furnaces will cost about $400,000, completed with all of the most improved plate-glass machinery.

The Indianapolis Journal, from which we gather these statements, says: "It is A short time since it was thought that the great tidal wave of temperance was fully upon us, but it was only a gentle swell, a forerunner of what we are now promised. The doings of the reformed hard drinkers, in other places has enkindled in the minds of our citizens a desire to have a temperance campaign. It is announced that two speakers from Pittsburgh, will visit our town, and a lecture be delivered on Friday evening at the M. E. Church, and a series of lectures arranged for. What the result will be of course no one can tell. Heretofore most of the temperance movements took place a few weeks prior to the charter election, and were evidently a war on the saloons. A number of people now take a different view of the subject. The reformation of drinkers of intoxicants accomplished, the saloons will take care of themselves.

The present spell of March weather is sufficient to ruin; the faith of the strongest believer in signs, such as December's first three days, goose bone, ground hog and a hundred others of the same genus.

G. B. C. to be hoped that a sufficient amount of pl stock will be taken to insure the erection of these works at Indianapolis; but if our capitalists cannot be induced to aid the enterprise, it is possible that wealthy men in other cities of the State will see the propriety of securing to themselves and their locality the benefits to be derived from the erection of these works, and make Indiana the center of plate glass manufacture in the United States. Any communication on the subject sent to Prof. Cox will be laid before Mr. Gobert on his arrival."

THE NEXT POPE. - There is a chance that the new Pope, when the cardinals are com-pelled to make one, will be an Englishman—the first since Nicholas Breakspear in the foudal ages, and the first Pope of foreign extraction, for that matter, for many centuries. The person thus pointed to is Monsignor Howard, a member of the to is Monsignor Howard, a member of the old Catholic family whose head is the Duke of Norfolk, premier duke of the English peerage. This churchman has long been a resident of Rome, being vicar of St. Peter's and in personal favor with the present Pope, who has just made him cardinal. He is 48 years old, a scholar of high character, though not a man of anything like the force of Cardinal Manning, the other English member of the ning, the other English member of the sacred college. It is thought that his candidacy would afford a more likely oppor-tunity for agreement than that of any Italian. The Pope's position in Rome is comfortable in material respects as yet and will remain so long as Pius 1X livesi but his successor will certainly not enjoy wivileges and impurities that are now privileges and immunities that are now accorded. The present occupant of the chair of St Peter, many even think, will be the last Pope of Rome. Already the Vatican officials are inventorying all the papal property; anticipating that on the Vatican officials are ...

yapal property; anticipating that on the papel property; anticipating that it is Mary M., infant daughter to the law, So, Lukens, and Mary M., infant daughter to the papel, Wary M., infant daughter to the papel, war M. infant daughter to the specificated about in frome, and some have even suggested the possibility of its trans-fer to America. Any such change would be a yielding of the papacy to the inexora-the progress of the world, and we cannot think it likely that it will voluntarily be entered upon.

Henry Ward Beecher's Opinion of the Present Political Situation.

18pecial Dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer.]
St. Louis, March 18.—Your corres Cent. O. Div. pondent met Henry Ward Beecher to-day, and during the conversation the Brook-lyn pastor expressed himself freely upon W. P. & B. Div a number of public questions in a manner that makes them of general interest. In response to an inquiry, Mr. Beecher ex-pressed a very high opinion of Mr. Hayes, although he said he did not know Hayes, although he said he did not know him personally. He had strong faith 'In his intentions in regard to his Southern policy, but it should be remembered that it was only an experiment. It would undoubledly succeed he thought, if it were not for those two ulcers, South Carolina and Louisiana. If the President withdraws the troops from these States, will the whites set to work to abuse and persecute the blacks, and if they do, what then. These, he said, were the questions involved in the Administration policy, and nobody could tell how that policy would enceed until he knew how these questions were to be answered. No policy could be considered a success unless it guaranteed the blacks in the possession of all their rights. Mr. Beecher thought that peace would come to the South by such a policy as would encourage the wealth and culture of that section to come to the front and resume control of affairs. He said that the trouble was that what was called the worlth and culture of the South had no pluck. "The men of character and means in the South," said he, "have never had the courage to confront the bhopy who do all the mischief, and to put them down. After a big riot, in which 100 negroes are killed and no white man wounded they will come out in cards and protests and say they are very sorry that it happened, but then they will immediately retire within themselves, and you won't hear from them again until there has been another riot and another lot of negroes killed; then they will write more cards, and say again that they are sorry. But him personally.
